

- GARETH Ey up. Michelle's here.
- CLIFF I thought you'd gone off the idea.
- GARETH What Michelle Foster? Look at her. Bloody gorgeous.
- CLIFF You think they're all gorgeous.
- GARETH They are. Both of them. Look at them Sticking out like that, hanging there like two ripe watermelons ready for picking. How she gets any work done is beyond me.
- CLIFF Christ, she's a person. Stop drooling. You look desperate.
- GARETH Don't you think she's my type?
- CLIFF Of course she's your type. She's got a pulse.
- GARETH I reckon she's nuts about me.
- CLIFF She'd have to be.
- GARETH Give over. I know how women's minds work .
- CLIFF Oh, do tell.
- GARETH I've figured them out, they're... simple.
- CLIFF They'd have to be to go out with you.
- GARETH You didn't see the sort I was with last night.
- CLIFF Will you listen to yourself. 'The sort'. -(Sarcastically) How you stay single I will never know.
- GARETH She was on a hen do .
- CLIFF Who was?
- GARETH Caroll. With two Ls.
- CLIFF Two Ls? Double Ls.
- GARETH Double Ds and all.

- CLIFF           Keep your voice down, some of these women are old enough to be your mum.
- GARETH        Nothing wrong with that. The trainline may not be used much, but I'm sure the service still runs, if you know what I mean.
- CLIFF           If you're the only choice, I'm sure they'd prefer the replacement bus service .
- GARETH        She came over to me, and said 'Hi, I'm Caroll. With two Ls.
- CLIFF           That was her chat up line?
- GARETH        She said she was on a hen do and she had to do some dares.
- CLIFF           What was her dare? Speak to an utter prat?
- GARETH        No. She needed to kiss a local man on the lips.
- CLIFF           Surprise surprise.
- GARETH        Aye. They'd come down on a mini bus. - She needed a kiss, I was happy to oblige. - and more.
- CLIFF           (Slightly disgusted) And more? - Actually I don't want to know.
- GARETH        It started off with a kiss, then it ended up like...
- CLIFF           Do you mind? I'm trying to turn a sausage here.
- GARETH        Well, she could do that hands free.
- CLIFF           Poor woman.
- GARETH        She chose the dare.
- CLIFF           So you were just a means to an end.
- GARETH        Yeah, her means, my end. - Can I er...bum a ciggie?
- CLIFF           Is Raquel looking?
- GARETH        Erm, no...why?